Mr. Austin's Car—And Annabel.

By CECILY ALLEN.

Copyrighted, 1907, by Homer Sprague.

"Annabel" shouted the superintendent of the Clarendon Home for Orphans in his crisp, sharp tone, "you take these five children down to Mr. Frederick Austin's car—the man with the gray coat—no, behind you, the dull green car! Quick, now; we shan't get started till noon at this rate."

Annabel marshaled her quintet of excited flag-carrying children and pushed them ahead of her toward the big dull green touring car.

"Is this Mr. Austin's car?" she inquired, restraining five wriggling children who just yearned to spring through the open door.

The young man who had been lounging with one hand on the steering wheel sat up at attention as Annabel's charming voice reached his ear. Every one, from the irritable, overworked superintendent to the dull-witted helper in the laundry, loved Annabel's voice, and it was not remarkable that this good-looking young chap in the gray coat and disfiguring goggles should think it the finest music he had ever heard.

He sprang to the side-walk and swung the children into the car and then extended a helping hand to the slender girl in her simple shirt waist suit of striped chambray, which reminded him of the deft-fingered nurse who had taken care of him after his first motoring accident.

"Gee, but she is a corker! But her hair will look just like a gypsy's when we get to going some."

That was what the young man said to himself. What he said to Annabel was:

"Are you afraid to go fast? I'd like to give these kiddies the run of their life, but if we're going to do that you had best take off your hat and tie on this veil."

He whipped a long gray automobile veil from a convenient hamper.

"A guest left it in the car night before last. It looks quite new. Perhaps you would not mind it."

"All right," interrupted Annabel, with a smile that he instantly decided matched her voice. Deftly she tucked her hat into the hamper, tied the veil under her chin in a bewitching bow and, leaning back in the big car, smiled happily at her young charges.

The young man watched the smile from behind his goggles, and when the superintendent of the asylum hurried up to make sure that these, the last of his big family, were properly cared for the young man fairly beamed on the orphanage official.

"Going to have a fine run, I imagine," he said, with a most interested infection. "The superintendent glanced back in some surprise. This annual trip to Van Orden Beach, given by the big automobile club for the orphans, was not without its thrills for the superintendent. Most of the owners of machines sent their chauffeurs, who either acted bored and disagreeable or teased the children or flirted with the young women attendants. At the general greeting in the quiet, cultured voice the superintendent felt almost grateful.

"I hope it will be a good run and a pleasant day. I'm sure it is very kind of you club members to take a personal interest in the children."

The young man started to say something in reply, but the superintendent had to answer a call farther down the line. The young man turned on the power, with certain grim lines forming around his mouth, though behind the goggles his eyes twinkled.

Away went the long, flashing line of many-colored automobiles and the burden of shouting, hurrahing children in pink and white and blue and white checked gingham.

Annabel was so grateful that she had graduated to stripes. There had been a time when to her pink or blue cheeks were almost synonymous with prison stripes; but, after all, she had decided, things might have been much worse with her.

At the beach the children tumbled out of the car and made wild rushes for the surf. Most of the chauffeurs or car owners hurried back to town or ran into a popular roadhouse a mile beyond Van Orden's, but Mr. Austin had evidently started out to give his carload of orphans the time of their lives. He did not squander money, but each of the five had a ride on the merry-go-round, while Mr. Austin himself held the youngest girl on the wild looking ostrich she had chosen as her steed. And Annabel watched them from the unsightly green benches, her eyes dancing with sympathetic pleasure, and a score of fascinating brown tendrils escaping from beneath the soft gray veil. Annabel felt a bit guilty about that veil. She could have taken it off and resumed her hat directly they reached the beach, but those yards and yards of filmy chiffon felt so soft and aristocratic to her fastidious touch.

After the merry-go-round ride came a trip through the old mill, and then there were bags of peanuts to feed the monkeys, a forlorn group in a more forlorn cage. Each kiddie had a ride in the donkey carts, too, and a sack of salt water taffy. At 4 o'clock lunch was served to the orphans by a caterer provided by the club, and after the children were seated Annabel found the watchful Mr. Austin at her elbow.

"Won't you come over to the Occidental with me? I think you'll find the cooking rather better than this."

Annabel walked away with him as in a daze. The Occidental! Why, that was where Mrs. Ashton, one of the richest patrons of the home, always spent her summers. It must be a very smart place. And what if she, the humble assistant governess from the home, should meet its rich patron face to face? Well, she would take the chance. And soon she forgot her fear in listening to the order for lunch. He seemed to know just the things she had always wanted to taste. And how polite the waiters were! Annabel touched her hair anxiously as the many young women with carefully marcelled coiffures passed her table, little dreaming, she how they envied her the saucy tendrils of hair around her plump face.

Mr. Austin's gray car was the last to leave the beach that night, and the shadows were falling over the big city when it drew up before the orphanage. The third superintendent came hurrying forward.

"Just a little trouble with the spark plug, which has a violet tinge due to the incandescence of solid particles of carbon. The arc of light extended from one electrode to the other also has an axis of violet color which is its most brilliant part. The fact that most of the luminosity comes from the crater explains the reason why the light does not appear equal in all directions. It is brightest from that point of view which shows the largest portion of the crater."

An interesting effect is often noticed when flies or other insects flutter about an arc light. Their shadows cast on a neighboring wall appear gigantic. The reason is that the light of the crater is concentrated in a point smaller than the bodies of the insects, and the boundaries of the shadows consequently widen with increase of distance.—St. Louis Republic.

"Good night, good night! Thanks!" shouted the children as they reluctantly left the car. Mr. Austin stood hat in hand.

"Aren't you going to say good night, too, Miss Annabel?" he asked and held out his hand cordially. She never knew whether her fingers touched his or not. She only heard him say, "May I see you again some time?" and then she shook her head and turned swiftly toward the orphanage door.

She understood now! He had mistaken her for one of the lady patronesses or a settlement worker. He did not dream that all her childhood had been spent as one of these very orphans and that she had been retained on small pay as a governess.

She had read in books about girls who had suddenly met twentieth century Prince Charmings, and she had thought how wonderful such an experience must be today!

Anything but wonderful. She was sorry she had not told him the truth. She was sorry—no, she was not sorry about the lunch nor the long, searching glances she had encountered across the table nor the sweet, slow trip home, with the sleeping children piled into the big seats behind them. But she must never, never see him again!

The orphans from the Clarendon Home were enjoying their second and last big picnic of the season, this time at the city park. They had had a May queen, though it was August, duly crowned her and showering her with small attentions. They had much ice cream and lemonade, and now the long afternoon was drawing to a drowsy finish. Annabel had helped to clean up the lunch table, had settled half a dozen childish disputes and was beginning to feel a bit flushed and tired, when around the curve of the gravelled road flashed a big, dull green car containing a single figure clad in a long gray coat. The car stopped; the figure leaned forward, then sprang to the ground.

"I just saw it—about the picnic—in the afternoon papers. Please come for a little run. You look as if you had been working too hard."

Annabel's lips set in firm lines. She answered quickly.

"Yes; you see I must work for my living. I am one of the helpers at the home, and I was an orphan there once. Maybe you thought—"

"I knew—at the beach. But that isn't what I came to tell you. Please come. Mechanically she stepped into the car and sat down beside him. Then he knew all the time!

The car moved off slowly. The superintendent rose from the bench where he had been resting for the first time since early morning, and shading his eyes with his hand, watched it out of sight. Then he smiled oddly and sat down again.

The man in the car had something to say, and he drew his breath sharply before he spoke.

"You misunderstood. So did the superintendent. But I told him the truth before I asked you to ride with me again. You thought I was Mr. Austin, but I'm only his chauffeur and have charge of his car while he is in Europe. I take his mother out occasionally, but most of the time there is nothing doing. It's no disgrace to be a chauffeur, but I am sorry I did not tell you the first day. I want to make and sell automobiles some day, and that is why I started as Mr. Austin's chauffeur. When he comes back I'm going into the factory where this machine was made—and—"

He stopped abruptly at sight of the girl's radiant face.

"Oh, I'm so glad—you are not Mr. Austin!"

Light came to the young man.

"Well, I'm glad—that you are glad," he said simply. "May I bring my mother to call on you some evening?"

"At the orphanage?" she asked falteringly.

"At the orphanage," he answered firmly. "Why, of course. I told her all about you after that day at the beach!"

The hand that was not on the steering wheel closed firmly over hers, and Annabel saw the woods and the lake through a wonderful mist that was half tears, half golden sunshine.

Colors and the Mind.

There are good and evil effects even in colors, not only in the artistic arrangement of them to the trained eye of an artist, but in plain everyday red and blue and green, to say nothing of others. According to Medical Talk For the Home, if a person were confined in a room with purple walls, with no color but purple around him, by the end of a month he would be a raving madman. Scarlet has even worse effects. Blue is very depressing; hence "the blues." Green is quite soothing, and yellow also has good effects on the vision and spirits of most people.

THE ELECTRIC CRATER.

Everybody knows that an arc light is formed by causing an electric current to pass between the points of two carbon rods. One of these is called the positive and the other the negative electrode, and the current passes from the former to the latter. Particles of carbon are carried on from the positive electrode until its end becomes cup shaped.

To the little cup thus formed the name of crater is applied, and from this crater four-fifths of the light is emitted. The negative electrode does not become so hot as the other. Between the two a little cloud of vaporized carbon is formed, rising from the crater, and this vapor gives forth a golden yellow light. But it is overpowered by the light of the crater itself, which has a violet tinge due to the incandescence of solid particles of carbon. The arc of light extended from one electrode to the other also has an axis of violet color which is its most brilliant part. The fact that most of the luminosity comes from the crater explains the reason why the light does not appear equal in all directions. It is brightest from that point of view which shows the largest portion of the crater.

An interesting effect is often noticed when flies or other insects flutter about an arc light. Their shadows cast on a neighboring wall appear gigantic. The reason is that the light of the crater is concentrated in a point smaller than the bodies of the insects, and the boundaries of the shadows consequently widen with increase of distance.—St. Louis Republic.

THE WARRANT CAME.

So They Took the Woman From Her Washtub to the Gallows.

The hanging of a woman, which in these days calls forth public protests, was apparently a matter of indifference to our grandfathers and grandmothers. It was in the nineteenth century that a woman found guilty of some trifling offense was sentenced to death. By chance the warrant for her execution was not sent to the high sheriff, and she remained in prison for about three years, acting as a jail washerwoman and occasionally, as a favor in acknowledgment of her good behavior, going out, as was then the custom, as washerwoman to private houses. But a clerk looking through the home office records found the warrant that had never been dispatched, and it was thereupon promptly forwarded to the sheriff for due process.

The woman was found by the turnkey at the washtub in a house in the town—Aylesbury. "Well, missus," said he, "you are to be hanged. The warrant has come at last, and we must carry the sentence out tomorrow morning at the latest."

"Werry well, then," the wretched woman submissively replied. "I suppose I must go," and, having washed the soapuds off her arms, departed with the official. She was duly hanged the next morning, from all which it would seem that barely a century separates us from a condition of primitive barbarism.—London Chronicle.

Not Good Twice.

Lincoln's stories grew better and better as he grew older. One of the best was told to a visitor who congratulated him on the almost certain purpose on the part of the people to reelect him for another term of four years. Mr. Lincoln replied that he had been told this frequently before and that what was new was that now he was reminded of a farmer in Illinois who determined to try his own hand at blasting. After successfully boring and filling in with powder he failed in his effort to make the powder go off, and after discussing the cause with a looker on and failing to detect anything wrong in the powder the farmer suddenly came to the conclusion that it would not go off because it had been shot before.

A Point of View.

The new steamer City of — was laid up for repairs, and one of the rickety old timers of the line was sailing in her place. A passenger who was somewhat irritated by the fact remarked to another, an Irishman, by the way, "The City of — always gets in at 2 in the morning, and this old tub never gets in before 6."

The Irishman thought for a moment and replied: "It's all right. The distance is just the same, and we get a longer sail for our money."—New York Press.

Needed a Cloutburst.

Staying at an inn in Scotland, a shooting party found their sport much interfered with by rain. Still, wet or fine, the old fashioned barometer that hung in the hall persistently pointed to "set fair." At length one of the party drew the landlord's attention to the glass, saying, "Don't you think, now, Dugald, there's something the matter with your glass?" "No, sir," replied Dugald, with dignity, "she's a gude glass and a powerful glass, but she's no' moved w' trifles."

Such Is Fame.

A learned correspondent writes: "I was examining a witness, an elderly woman, the other day. On my inquiring her name she said it was Mrs. Ardel and that she came from Braveston. I asked, 'Did you know Charles Dickens?' She replied, 'Do you mean the undertaker?' Such is fame."—London News.

Make use of time while it is present with you. It depends upon your will and not upon the number of days to have a sufficient length of life.—Montaigne.

A FLOATING SNAIL.

Peculiar Ways of This Wonderful Little Creature.

There is a small snail which is so fond of the sea that it never comes to land, and it builds such a capital boat for itself and its eggs that while large ships are sinking and steamers are unable to face the storm it tosses about in perfect safety.

The little snail is of a violet color and is therefore called lanthina. It has a small shell, and there projects from the upper part of the body a long, tongue-like piece of flesh. This is the raft, and it is built upon most scientific principles, for it has compartments in it for air. It is broad and the air compartments are underneath, so that it cannot capsize.

Moreover, the snail knows how to stow away its cargo, for the oldest eggs and those which hatch the soonest are placed in the center and the lightest and newest on the sides of the raft. The lanthina fills its own air compartments by getting a globule of air underneath its head. The body is then curved downward beneath the raft, and the head being tilted on one side, the air rushes up and fills the spaces. It feeds on a beautiful little jellyfish, which has a flat, raftlike form with a pretty little sail upon it, and they congregate in multitudes when the sea is calm.

Sometimes specimens are washed upon the northwestern coast of France, and when they are handled they give out a violet dye.

Liquor in Norway.

Laws by Which the Sale of Intoxicants is Controlled.

The Samling system in Norway gives power to municipalities to grant all the retail spirit licenses which it deems necessary to a company which would bind itself to carry on the traffic in the interests of the community, with a fixed annual return of not more than 5 per cent on its paid up capital. In establishing the system the question of compensation does not appear to have presented much difficulty. When the Samling was introduced two kinds of licenses were in existence—first, those granted annually or for a term not exceeding five years, and second, privileged licenses, granted for the life of the licensee. In the case of the first no compensation whatever was paid to those dispossessed of their licenses. In regard to the latter compensation was granted in the form of an annuity equal to the average yearly profits for the three years preceding the suppression of the license.

With these provisions the aims and principles of the Samling are summarized as follows: The elimination of private profit and securing the monopoly value for the public, insuring highest quality of liquors sold, the reduction of the number of licenses, the easy enforcement of the law, the destruction of the power of the spirit trade and the furtherance of all progressive measures of reform.—New York Herald.

Not Man's Work.

Moontide and springtime moods all to the contrary, the fact remains that marriage is not a man's work, but one of his dearest delusions, from which he parts begrudgingly. Moreover, it is not even necessary to him in the accomplishment of those things which are his work. It is generally no more than his dream of prolonging through years a humanly improbable condition. Happiness as a husband and father has always been his scarcely whispered prayer, his dearest secret hope, toward which all his idealistic yearns. That numerous other and very potent motives enter into men's hearts is not in the least overlooked. It is only claimed that to the average man his future marriage is little more than a very beautiful dream.—Anna A. Rogers in Atlantic.

Cures Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John C. Frye of the Editorial Staff of THE ELECTRIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Hellonia dioica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator. It makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system."

He continues: "In Helonia we have a medicine which more fully answers the above purpose than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Frye further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helonia (Unicorn root). Pain or achiness in the back, with leucorrhoea; stonic (weak) condition of the reproductive organs of women; mental depression and irritability associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding) due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhoea (suppressed or absent monthly periods); and, from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and system (thin blood) habit dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can afford to neglect Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonia, and the medical properties of which it most fully represents.

Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Wiley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says: "It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions and general enfeeblement, it is useful."

Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root: "In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use abroad which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

Prof. R. Bartholow, M.D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal: "Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (flooding) and congestive dysmenorrhoea (painful menstruation)."

Sonoma May Get Farm.

ACCORDING to a bill introduced in the last Legislature there is a possibility that Sonoma may yet be chosen as a site for a State agricultural farm. It is proposed to have ten experimental stations in various parts of the State and having already set forth our fitness for the carrying on of such work we will naturally expect and will undoubtedly get a farm. We are still in the field and have not taken in our sign. Although somewhat disappointed that we did not get the farm selected elsewhere a few years ago, it makes the heart glow to reflect on the kindly spirit shown by all Sonoma county when Sonoma Valley came to the front with her project. We had a magnificent proposition and we treated our visitors handsomely. So, perhaps, all this will not be forgotten when the time comes for the establishment of more experimental schools.

Deferred Marriages.

THERE has been an increasing tendency toward the postponement of marriage for girls until they pass twenty, and where formerly the teens was the proper time it is now deemed altogether too soon, and we are schooling our young women to defer their betrothals until the maturer age. Since this has been the order of things what has the experiment shown? What has been its effect on society? Divorce statistics do not show that there is any more wisdom shown in the selection of suitable life partners or that the modern marriageable woman is able to adapt herself any better, or as well, to the ways of her husband as did the inexperienced, impressionable miss in her teens. May not the modern tendency be one of the contributing evil influences to the growth of divorce?

Women as they grow older invariably grow wiser. They become more critical, more self-assertive and less tractable. Man's natural yearning is for the wife with old-fashioned accomplishments. It is awkward to get along with the wise woman who has heard of all the tricks of transgressing husbands. Men prefer non-questioning, bread-making wives to wise club-going ones. Where are they to be found to-day?

Lo! the Poor Colonel.

There's a shake-up in the Army
Since that strenuous decree
That military men
Equestrians must be.

The awful goat fraternal
Has no terrors to the jolts
They get while bouncing bravely,
On those fiery army colts.

To jolts they are accustomed,
But not these kind, oh no.
There's a very distressed echo
In their whoa, which sounds like woe.

The Fire Department.

SONOMA still continues to build up and there has been a steady hammer resounding through the town all year long. It seems very necessary now to protect our new buildings and our many pretty homes, from the possibility of conflagration, and while we do not wish to anticipate misfortune it is a valuable precaution to be ready for any emergency, particularly fire, which must be combatted instantaneously. In view of this it would be well to lend every effort to the upbuilding and encouragement of our local fire department and water system. Too much interest cannot be shown in this organization. If the people show their interest it will help the volunteers. THE INDEX-TRIBUNE advocates the improvement of our fire-fighting apparatus and the support and encouragement of every citizen toward this end.

THE municipal election in San Francisco Tuesday was a great victory for civic decency and struck terror into the hearts of boodlers, big and little. Now that the metropolis has been purified at the polls it may look for financial assistance from the East and the consummation of the New San Francisco we have read so much about.

But the strongest point about Scott's Emulsion is that you don't have to be sick to get results from it.

Advice of Noted Authority
—Also Gives Simple
Home Prescription.

Now is the time when the doctor gets busy, and the patent medicine manufacturers reap the harvest, unless great care is taken to dress warmly and keep the feet dry. This is the advice of an old eminent authority, who says that Rheumatism and Kidney trouble weather is here, and also tells what to do in case of an attack.

Get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

Just try this simple home-made mixture at the first sign of Rheumatism, or if your back aches or you feel that the kidneys are not acting just right. This is said to be a splendid kidney regulator and almost certain remedy for all forms of Rheumatism, which is caused by uric acid in the blood, which the kidneys fail to filter out. Any one can easily prepare this at home and at small cost.

Druggists in this town and vicinity, when shown the prescription, stated that they can either supply these ingredients, or, if our readers prefer, they will compound the mixture for them.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietor has so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all druggists 75 cents. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Sprains.

S. A. Read, Cisco, Texas, writes, on March 11, 1901: "My wrist was sprained so badly by a fall that it was useless; and after using several remedies that failed to give relief, used Ballard's Snow Liniment and was cured. I earnestly recommend it to any one suffering from sprains." Sold by Simmons Pharmacy.

A Most Worthy Article.

When an article has been on the market for years and gains friends every year, it is safe to call this medicine a worthy one. Such is Ballard's Horehound Syrup. It positively cures coughs and a pulmonary disease. One of the best known merchants in Mobile, Ala., says "For five years my family has not been troubled with winter coughs. We owe this to Ballard's Horehound Syrup. I know it has saved my children from many sick spells." Sold by Simmons Pharmacy.

We will take your order for engraved cards of any description.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

BOLD BURGLARS ROB RAILWAY STATIONS.

Get Away With Some Coin and Loot a Mail Sack of Twenty-Five Letters.

At an early hour Monday morning burglars forced an entrance with a brace and bit into the California Northwestern railroad depot in this place, Vineburg and Schellville and also the Postoffice at the latter place. The brace and bit were used to bore a series of holes in the depot doors. They bored in a circle and a piece of the panel was then forced out, leaving a hole big enough for the burglar to pass his hand through it and unlock the door. All four of the premises were entered in like manner.

The amount of booty secured was not large, as the burglars were out for coin only, even deigning to take the pennies when they were accessible.

From the Sonoma depot the daring burglars took $3.70 from the cash drawer, overlooking a solitary ten cent piece, which was left lying at the bottom of the drawer. No attempt was made to force the safe or molest other property.

In the Vineburg station the cracksmen secured $1.75 in cash and twenty-five letters were taken from the mail sack. This latter theft is not to the liking of Uncle Sam and may lead to the arrest and conviction of the midnight marauders.

In the Schellville station the cracksmen struck a rich lead and cleaned up $55.11 in coin.

From the Postoffice at Schellville the burglars only got a measly fifty-one cents. This loss will undoubtedly fall upon Postmaster Mont Akers instead of the Government and would reduce him to beggary were he dependent upon the Postoffice job for a livelihood, as the theft will make a big hole in his monthly salary as Postmaster.

The burglars undoubtedly used a fast horse and light buggy in covering the distances between the three stations. Between two and three o'clock such a rig passed through town at a rapid pace. When near the corner of Napa street and Second-street East the rig was suddenly brought to a standstill and after a short whispered conversation between the occupants the horse was swung suddenly around and driven rapidly up First-street East, going in the direction of the depot.

No clew has yet been obtained by the officers, who are searching high and low for the offenders, who are thought to be amateur burglars.

Young Mens' Institute Ball

The Young Mens' Institute, No. 45, of this place will give its twenty-first annual ball at Union Hall on Thanksgiving eve. Rain or shine, these annual social gatherings of the Y. M. I. have been a success financially as well as socially and they have always been looked forward to with pleasure by the lovers of the light fantastic. It was our good fortune to attend the first ball given by Sonoma Council twenty years ago, and we have missed but few of them in the intervening years, and must say that the music, floor management and everything that goes to make up a successful and social gathering of party-loving people has never been lacking. So it will be at the forthcoming ball of the society Thanksgiving eve this year.

Installation.

Sonoma Grove, No. 75, U. A. O. D., installed the following officers on Friday night of last week to serve for the ensuing term: F. Canevari, P. A.; P. Lepori, N. A.; E. Guffanti, V. A.; I. Guffanti, Conductor; Aug. Clerici, I. G.; M. Del Don, O. G.; A. Beretta, Secretary; D. Valente, Treasurer; L. Masucco, Marshal. The installation was conducted by District Deputy P. Boccoli of this place.

Miners Return.

Dr. A. M. Thomson and Frank Weaver, who are interested with Dr. Sprague in a group of placer claims and quartz mines in the Lappan meadows, Mt. Grant mining district, Nevada, arrived from the new diggings Saturday, after an absence of several months.

Dr. Thomson reports the placer claims very promising and although but little ground has been worked he brought back with him five or six hundred dollars worth gold dust and not a few nuggets varying in size from a bean to a pigeon's egg. So far the work that has been done on the placer claims has been in the nature of prospecting. Next season, however, work on the claims will commence on a big scale, as water will then be abundant for several months at least. The owners are confident that they have several fortunes in sight and we trust that it may be so. The claims are located away up the mountains nearly 10,000 feet above sea level and ice forms there even in August. It is a most inaccessible spot from which it would be hard to retreat when once the winter's snow storms will have set in for good, hence the return of Messrs. Thomson and Weaver expect to return in May to their camp, where they left Dr. Sprague.

The New Home of the W. S. Millers.

W. S. Miller, Treasurer of the Standard Oil Company, who has a beautiful country home in the eastern suburbs of Sonoma, is building a magnificent residence on Vernal avenue, Piedmont. Previous to the big fire in San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Miller made their city home at the Palace Hotel. After the fire they moved to Alameda county.

The Oakland Tribune has this to say of their new home:

"The quiet dignity of some houses at once attracts, making the passer-by feel the restful influence of its architectural repose and absolute freedom from bizarre ornamentation."

"The new residence of Mr. Miller is one of them. The architects have been very happy and skillful in their adaptation of an old English half-timbered country house. It has been designed for the hillside with wide-covered loggias and an open terrace. On entering from the street front, the visitor steps into a large reception hall arranged so that all the rooms open from it. The living room, which is one of the main features of the interior, is 16 feet by 28 feet. With its wide windows it commands an uninterrupted view of the bay. French doors open into a wide covered loggia, also to a nine-foot by thirty-four foot open terrace across the garden front. The second floor contains four large bedrooms, dressing and bath rooms. On the third floor, the bedrooms of the servants are located. In the basement will be a billiard room, quarters for the Japanese, laundry and furnace room."

"The interior will be of the highest class. The dining room will have a vaulted ceiling. The living room, the hall and the den are to have beamed ceilings. All of the walls and the ceilings are to be treated in oil color, stippled to harmonize with the frieze and drapery scheme. The frieze is to be inlaid with metallic leaf, mottled in oil color and glazed in two-tone effect, in sombre gold and green tones. The mat surface on the walls will produce an effective and artistic background. Wood stain in special Van Dyke madder value of color will be adopted to harmonize with the mottled gold ceiling."

"The exact cost of the new residence is reserved, but it will cost over $10,000."

Wooden Sidewalks Must Go in Sonoma.

The cement sidewalk fad has evidently come to stay in Sonoma. A few years ago any old thing answered for sidewalk purposes in this town, but the modern cement sidewalk is now all the rage and of late they are being put down in every direction. This week these sidewalks are replacing the old uneven, nail-protruding wooden ones in front of Schocken's store on Spain street and the New Toscano and Garibaldi Hotel on First-street East. The wooden sidewalk from now on is doomed in the new Sonoma.

Will Hold Convention Next Year in Glen Ellen.

At Wednesday's session of the Sonoma Association of Congregational Churches, held in Santa Rosa, it was decided to hold the convention of the association next year in Glen Ellen. The selection was a most happy one.

CITY TRUSTEES IN NOVEMBER SESSION.

Invite Bids for Wiring the New City Hall—The Bills and Other Matters.

The City Dads met in November session Wednesday evening, all the members being in their seats including Mr. Wagon of San Francisco, who cast aside his private business affairs in the city to come to Sonoma to help make laws for our people.

The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and approved, the usual monthly bills were allowed and ordered paid, as follows:

J. H. Pooler, cleaning fire apparatus	$ 9.00
A. Pinelli, sprinkling streets	154.00
Mrs. L. V. Emparan, water	15.00
J. H. Albertson, salary	15.00
A. U. Lutgens, services as architect	100.00
John Foulson, labor	2.00
S. V. Co., electric lights	26.40
J. B. Newman, labor	25.00
A. Marzo, services	3.00
Total	$339.90

A petition from residents on Spain street, praying the Board to improve that thoroughfare and to abate certain nuisances, was read and found its way to the file. The existing nuisances complained of were referred to the Board of Health.

A communication from the League of California Municipalities was also read and filed.

An expenditure of $50 was authorized to be made by the Street Committee.

The contract for electric lights was renewed for another month.

Bids for wiring the New City Hall for electric lights were invited, and no notice to that effect ordered published two weeks in the SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

The Board then adjourned.

The City's Finances

City Clerk Small at the meeting of the City Trustees held last Wednesday evening, reported the amount of funds in the city treasury to be $12,667.54, as follows:

Bond Fund	$10,900.00
Bond and Interest	112.85
Furniture and Equip	327.34
General	1327.25

Japanese Flag Captured in El Verano.

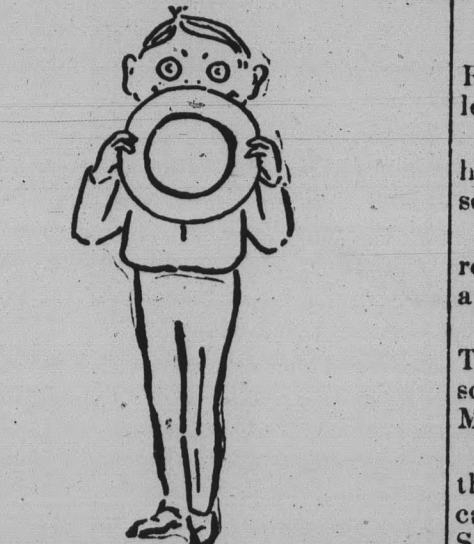

A squad of Japanese section men in the employ of the Southern Pacific Company made it quite lively for a number of Vallejo sports as the excursion train en route to Santa Rosa pulled out of El Verano last Sunday morning. The Japs, who are engaged in repairing the road bed of the company in this valley, were housed in a sidetracked construction car, from which were unfurled an American flag and a Japanese banner in honor of the Mikado's birthday. When the train pulled into El Verano a descent was made upon the flags by a number of Vallejo sports and they were captured and borne triumphantly aboard the cars as they moved out of the station. At this juncture the Japs discovered their loss and got busy. A rush was made for the train by the little brown men and had the cars not been in motion serious consequences might have followed the rash act of the fun-loving excursionists. As it was, one of the Japs succeeded in boarding the rear coach but was immediately shoved off by a passenger and as he struck the ground came very near being caught under the rear wheels of the coach. The disconcerted Jap picked himself up instantly and with a number of his fellows hurled a number of good American rocks and Japanese cuss words at the departing train and its excursionists.

Both flags are now in Vallejo and will no doubt be put on exhibition as mementoes of the first conflict of the war between the United States and Japan.

Funeral of Mary Caminata

The funeral of Miss Mary Caminata, who died at the age of twenty years in San Francisco, one day last week, was held here Saturday. The pall-bearers were Messrs. W. A. Clauser, H. D. Shankwiler, W. J. Spangler, Robert J. Wade, Leonard J. Nelson, and Charles Code, all of whom were employees of the Royal Heating Company of San Francisco, for which firm the deceased also worked. Among others from the metropolis who attended the funeral were Miss Caminata's employer, S. A. Anderson and wife, Mrs. C. Bernasconi, Miss Silva Torre.

Wise Talks by the Office Boy.

I took a good long look through the place today, and in addition to sweeping out, cleaning the show cases and front windows, checking the freight, delivering goods, tending to office duties, helping to write letters and getting up the ads, they want me to make myself familiar with the stock, so I can help out during the rush and sell goods. The new togs are coming in fast now, and, say, they're great. Nowadays you don't have to look on the inside of a man's coat collar for the maker's name to know if it fits. The coat itself will proclaim that half a block away.

The suits we are showing have the style and elegance which puts a man or woman in good company if they want. It puts the evidence all on their side. It isn't enough to be all right in these hustling days—you've got to look all right as well—and our new togs do just that thing for you. Grays are still "it" but you'll also want to see some of the handsome new plaids and browns. Come in and take a squint at our expense.

Improvements at Boyes' Hot Springs.

Plans for improving Boyes' Hot Springs on a large scale have just been perfected and as a preliminary to more important improvements to follow, twelve new bath and dressing rooms will be added to the present number. A handsome and commodious new club house for the use of guests will also be built and the swimming tank improved. Work on these will be commenced at once. Plans are already in the hands of an architect for a fine and costly hotel. Mr. R. Litchenberg and Dr. E. L. Parramore are now taking an interest in these marvelous hot springs and as they are men of means they will now no doubt receive the attention their curative powers entitle them to.

Painful Accident.

Sudden Death of Young Wife.

Mrs. Nagle, the young wife of Deputy County Recorder Ralph Nagle, expired almost instantly without warning at her home in Santa Rosa early Wednesday evening. She had been married a little over a year and two weeks ago gave birth to a baby girl. She was still confined to her bed and when the sudden summons came the sleeping infant lay beside the mother, who was being attended by a nurse. Suddenly Mrs. Nagle clutched at her heart and exclaimed: "Oh, what a pain! There it is again!" and instantly expired. Rheumatism of the heart was the cause of death.

STAGE FRIGHT.

Actors Have Been Known to Die From the Malady.

Perhaps the most terrible malady which can attack the actor in the course of his performance in the peculiar disease known as stage fright. Through its evil effects strong men and women have been known to faint, break down and do many other queer things, and there are even on record several cases of people who have died through this horrible seizure.

Some years ago a young novice who was to appear for the first time arrived at the theater very white and shaky. Brandy being given him he appeared slightly better, but no sooner had he set his foot on the stage than he clapped his hand to his heart, with a low cry, and fell down dead. The overwhelming sensation induced by stage fright had attacked his heart, and his theatrical career ended thus even at its beginning.

Quite as ghastly was the case of the young amateur actress who, strangely enough, had never experienced stage fright when playing with her fellow amateurs, but who was seized with the attack on making her first professional appearance. She went through the scene aided by the prompter, her eyes glazed, her hands rigid, and when the exit came it proved her exit from life's stage as well as the mimic boards, for she staggered to her dressing room and fell into a comatose state, from which she never recovered.

Perhaps, however, the most peculiar instance of all was that of the veteran performer who had gone through thirty years of stage work without experiencing this malady. One night, however, he confided to a fellow player that a quite unaccountable nervousness had suddenly taken hold of him and that he did not think he could ever act again. His comrades laughed at the notion and urged him to go on, as usual, but his astonishment may well be conceived when the poor old player went on the stage and, after making several vain efforts to speak, fell back and expired. The doctor who made the post-mortem examination stated that death was due to failure of the heart's action, evidently induced by the presence of an attack of stage fright.—Pearson's Weekly.

TYBURN TREE.

Park lane was Tyburn lane, and it seems as if the gallows—described in an old document as movable—at one time stood at its east corner. It was there the ferocious Lord Ferrers was hung in 1790 for murdering his servant, Horace Walpole's words paint the picture well: "He shamed heroes. He bore the solemnity of a pompous and tedious procession of above two hours from the Tower to Tyburn with as much tranquillity as if he were only going to his own burial, not to his own execution." And when one of the dragoons of the procession was thrown from his horse Lord Ferrers expressed much concern and said, "I hope there will be no death today but mine."

On went the procession, with a mob about it sufficient to make its progress slow and laborious. Small wonder that the age of Thackeray, with Thackeray's help, set up its scaffolds within four high walls. Asking for drink, Lord Ferrers was refused, for, said the sheriff, late regulations enjoined him not to let prisoners drink while passing from the place of imprisonment to that of execution, great indecencies having been committed by the drunkenness of the criminals in the hour of execution. "And though," said he, "my lord, I might think myself excusable in overlooking this order out of regard to your lordship's rank, yet there is another reason, which I am sure, will weigh with you—your lordship is sensible of the greatness of the crowd; we must draw up at some tavern; the confidence would be so great that it would delay the expedition which your lordship seems so much to desire." But decency—so often paraded by those who outrage it—ended with the murderer's death. "The executioners fought for the rope, and the one who lost it cried—the greatest tragedy, to his thinking, of the day!"—London Sketch.

When to Lift Your Hat.

In answer to the question, "Please tell when and where, or is, the correct time for a gentleman to lift or remove his hat," we reply: Without consulting authorities of etiquette, in fact giving it to you offhand, so to speak, we should say at the following times, and on the following occasions, respectively, the hat should be lifted or removed as circumstances indicate: When mopping the brow, when taking a bath, when eating, when going to bed, when taking up a collection, when having the hair trimmed, when being shampooed, when standing on the head.—Wichita (Kan.) Beacon.

A Curious Anomaly.

Until a few years ago, the Philippine Islanders held their Sunday on the day which was Monday to the inhabitants of the neighboring island of Borneo. This curious anomaly arose from the historic fact that the Philippines were discovered by Spanish voyagers coming from the east round Cape Horn, while Borneo was discovered by Portuguese coming from the west, and sailors lost or gain a day according to their direction in crossing the Pacific.

His Title.

"Papa," said little James, "what do they call a man who writes comic operas—a composer?" "No, my son," the old man answered; "he is usually called a playwright."—Los Angeles Times.

A Certain Cure for Croup—Used for 10 Years Without Failure.

Mr. W. C. Bott, a Star City, Ind., hardware merchant, is enthusiastic in his praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. His children have also been subject to croup, and he has used this remedy for the past ten years, and though they much feared the croup, his wife and he always felt safe upon referring when a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was in the house. His oldest child was subject to severe attacks of croup, but this remedy never failed to effect a speedy cure. He has recommended it to friends and neighbors and all who have used it say that it is unequalled for croup and whooping cough. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

A Quick and Safe Remedy for Bowel Complaints.

Twenty years ago Mr. Geo. W. Brock discovered that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was a quick and safe cure for bowel complaints. "During all of these years," he says, "I have used it and recommended it many times and the results have never yet disappointed me." Mr. Brock is publisher of the Aberdeen, Md., Enterprise. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

How to Cure a Cold.

The question of how to cure a cold without unnecessary loss of time is one in which we are all more or less interested, for the quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger of pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mr. B. W. L. Hall, of Waverly, Va., has used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for years and says: "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation for the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me." For sale by L. S. Simmons.

Daily Examiner and Index-Tribune $9 a year for both papers.

Quinsey, Sprains and Swellings Cured.

"In November, 1901, I caught cold and had the quinsy. My throat was swollen so I could hardly breathe. I applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm and it gave me relief in a short time. In two days I was all right," says Mrs. L. Cousins, Otterburn, Mich. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is a liniment and is especially valuable for sprains and swellings. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

The Chase Home Place.

The Chase home place has been sold to Mr. W. B. Austin of Stockton, California, and he has commenced the subdivision of this beautiful tract into residential lots. It is Mr. Austin's intention to make this subdivision the Choice Resident Part of Sonoma, and he will make every effort to interest parties wishing to build homes. Avenues will be graded through the tract, cement sidewalks will be laid on both sides of the principal avenue, ornamental trees will be planted, and substantial bridges will be constructed over the creek running through the tract.

The Chase home place has been noted for its beautiful trees, which are one of the desirable features in the selection of a residential lot. There will be no farmyards or chicken ranches in this subdivision. Every effort will be made to have the improvements desirable.

Mr. Austin has decided to give five lots free of cost for the purpose of constructing desirable residences, and he will make all reasonable inducements as to prices and terms to any party wishing to build a home in this tract.

That this is a rare opportunity to secure a home site there can be no question, and any one contemplating building will do well to investigate Mr. Austin's offer at once, as it is reasonably certain that this offer will not last long.

Prices of lots in this tract range from $200.00 to $350.00 according to location. Terms can be arranged to suit the purchaser, and the property can be purchased from any real estate agent in Sonoma, or through Mr. Austin's authorized agent, George E. Crane, care of B. F. Campbell, Sonoma, California.
